Taming Your Holiday Bird

Holiday season is approaching and for many that means –Turkey Time! Every family has their own tricks to master the oversized chicken. My father swears by placing the bird breast down and scalding the skin with boiling water before cooking. Other families pull out the deep fryer; some are even bold enough to attempt the turducken (aka a duck in a chicken in a turkey). Calm your fears and trepidations chefs of family housing. I’ve gathered a host of tips to help you in your attempt to reach holiday season bliss: the perfect bird.

- Thaw your turkey with time to spare and in the fridge. If you have a frozen turkey it takes approximately 24 hours for every 5 pounds of meat.
- Don’t stuff your turkey – the stuffing cannot cook evenly in the cavity of the turkey. Cook it alongside the turkey in a casserole dish to achieve crunchy, evenly cooked stuffing.
- Bring on the spice. Turkeys are big birds. Put your spice of choice both in the cavity and on the outside of the bird.
- Cook the turkey slowly at a relatively low temperature: Roast at 325 degrees Fahrenheit for 15-20 minutes per pound. Remove the turkey when it reads 165 degrees Fahrenheit in the thickest part of the thigh meat.
- Baste the turkey with the pan juices every forty-five minutes to keep the skin moist. If you want to crisp up the skin, in the last forty-five minutes baste the turkey with oil or butter.
- Give the turkey a break – after removing the turkey from the oven, cover it with foil and let it rest for 20-30 minutes before you carve the meat. In that time the meat will firm up and the juices will re-absorb, making the turkey easier to slice and taste juicier.
- Troubleshoot – if your turkey is nice and brown but has not reached 165F internal temperature cover it loosely with foil to slow down the external cooking process.

But my favorite part of turkey dinner is the leftovers. Use the scraps to make stock, eat turkey sandwiches for days or, our family favourite, bake a turkey potpie. Happy festivities (and eating) this holiday season! - Avril Nagel

We would like to say a big “HAPPY BIRTHDAY!” to Myer Horowitz who will celebrate his 80th birthday on December 27th. Myer serves on the Family Centre’s Advisory Committee which meets every month to help the staff; volunteers and practicum students discuss and implement ideas on how best to support student families here at UVic.

Myer was formerly the president of the University of Alberta and became known for his advocation for widely accessible early childhood services, something he continues to do today! Myer was made a member of the Order of Canada in 1990, has been awarded nine honorary doctorate degrees and became the adjunct professor of Education at UVic in 1998. We are so appreciative of all the behind-the-scenes work Myer does for the Family Centre and are delighted to have the opportunity to wish him all the best! THANK YOU MYER!

Challah Recipe

Challah is a Jewish braided bread that is served on the Sabbath and on Holidays. Top it with sesame or poppy seeds, or add raisins to the batter for a sweet touch.

Ingredients:

- 2 ½ cups warm water (110 degrees F)
- 1 tablespoon active dry yeast
- ½ cup honey
- 4 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 3 eggs
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 8 cups unbleached flour
- 1 tablespoon poppy seeds (optional)

Directions:

1. In a large bowl, sprinkle yeast over barely warm water. Beat in honey, oil, 2 eggs, and salt. Add the flour one cup at a time, beating after each addition, graduating to kneading with hands as dough thickens. Knead until smooth and elastic and no longer sticky, adding flour as needed. Cover with a damp clean cloth and let rise for 1 1/2 hours or until dough has doubled in bulk.

2. Punch down the risen dough and turn out onto floured board. Divide in half and knead each half for five minutes or so, adding flour as needed to keep from getting sticky. Divide each half into thirds and roll into long snake about 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Pinch the ends of the three snakes together firmly and braid from middle. Either leave as braid or form into a round braided loaf by bringing ends together, curving braid into a circle, pinch ends together. Grease two baking trays and place finished braid or round on each. Cover with towel and let rise about one hour.

3. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F (190 degrees C)

4. Beat the remaining egg and brush a generous amount over each braid. Sprinkle with poppy seeds if desired

5. Bake at 375 degrees F for about 40 minutes. Bread should have a nice hollow sound when thumped on the bottom. Cool on a rack for at least one hour before slicing.

Warm up those vocal chords! The Family Centre Choir begins January 9th. The choir will meet 7:30-9:00 every second and fourth Wednesday of the month. No previous choir experience or music reading skills required. $30 for the term.
