Requests for extensions to programs must be made prior to the time limit expiry date for the student's program.

A student proceeding toward a doctoral degree will be required to complete all program requirements within seven years (eighty-four consecutive months) from the date of first registration in the program. A student proceeding toward a master's degree will be required to complete all program requirements for the degree within five years (sixty consecutive months) from the date of the first registration in the master's degree. Students should review the FGS Calendar regulations regarding the implications on their program time limit before extensions are requested.
