Dr. Jeremy Wyatt presents:

The past, present & future of clinical decision support

Wednesday, September 28th

12:00 p.m. – 1:00 p.m.

Human and Social Development Building, A270
& online using Blackboard Collaborate

Dr. Jeremy Wyatt is a Professor at the University of Southampton in the Faculty of Medicine and the Director of the Wessex Institute of Health & Research, which provides high-quality, practice-based research to support decision makers in health and healthcare. He was trained as a hospital physician in Oxford, London and Glasgow and then in medical informatics at Stanford and London Universities. His research explores how to design and evaluate complex interventions such as technologies for disseminating evidence, supporting self-care (e.g. telehealth) and preventing long-term conditions (e.g. Apps, SMS messages).
