JOB TITLE: EPLS2 - Exhibition Development – “Disobedient Women”

DEPARTMENT NAME: Educational Psychology and Leadership Studies

CONTACT NAME: Darlene Clover

JOB DESCRIPTION:

In 2017, Canada, as a nation, will be 150 years of age. Many types of activities will be taking place. This workstudy position responds to this. I have been invited by the Legacy Gallery of UVic to mount an exhibition entitled Disobedient Women that will recognize women’s, feminist and activist contributions to Canada. It will be held at the Maltwood Gallery, MacPherson Library, October, November and December 2017. What is required is someone who can document this, through video, photographs and through a website.

There are three primary tasks for this position. The first is to document the collection that will be displayed through video and photography. The second is to attend educational events, keep a photographic and written record. The third is to create a photographic report of the exhibition (document it visually) and to put this and other things on the website.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Strong communication skills, particularly writing and listening
- 2 Academic, working background or a keen interest in women’s issues/feminism (knowledge of women’s movements in Canada an asset)
- 3) Website design skills (contributing and building an existing site)
- 4) Excellent photography and video skills (access to a great camera and video recorder an asset)
- 5) Experience taking minutes, documenting conversations or workshops (along with photos)
- 6) Strong capacity to work well on your own and manage your time
- 7) Ability to complete tasks on time
