

Photograph of "Works of Literature" from the Tsumago-juku Village Museum, Tsumago, Japan, begging the question: do all books belong in museums?

THE BOOK IS DEAD

IdeaFest 2012: The Great Debate

Wednesday, March 7, 2012
3:30-4:30 PM
SSM A 110

University of Victoria
 Humanities

Remember reading things on paper?
 Remember not being able to reformat text size to make things easier to read, or not being able to toggle night-mode on your iPad or Kindle? In short—do you remember books?

Join your host, John Archibald, Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, and Margaret Cameron, Jentrey Sayers, Martha McGinnis, and John Tucker as they debate whether or not the book is dead. If the book isn't dead, where is it going, and how will it get there?

Come to Room A110 in the Social Science and Math building at 3:30 on March 7 and discover whether the book has a future...