Rizwan Bashir is a Team Lead/Senior Programmer Analyst within University Systems at University of Victoria. He is responsible for day to day management of University’s mission-critical administrative systems. He manages large cross-functional teams to deliver complex administrative system upgrades for University of Victoria. Rizwan is currently serving in UVic Senate as Convocation Senator and he is also a member of Senate sub-committee on Learning and Teaching.

Rizwan is a proven project manager with PMP credential. His educational background includes:

1) BSc in Computer Science from University of New Brunswick.
2) Masters Certificate in Project Management from University of Victoria.
3) Executive Leadership Certificate from Cornell University.

In his current position, Rizwan provides critical support to administrative departments like Office of the Registrar, Human Resources and Accounting. In 2012, Rizwan was nominated by staff in administrative departments for President’s Distinguished Service Award. He has fostered relationships and developed understanding and knowledge of University’s administrative environment. If elected, Rizwan would bring this knowledge to UVic Board of Governors.