SAMPLE LECTURE TOPICS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Lecture Title</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9:00 a.m.</td>
<td>Cultural Intelligence: A critical leadership skill for everyone</td>
<td>Learn about cultural intelligence from Professor Brian Leacock. You’ll explore how it builds on emotional intelligence, and see why it’s considered a critical skill for leadership in a multicultural society and globalized business environment.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10:00 a.m.</td>
<td>Stereochemistry: Molecular handshakes between medicines and their targets in the body</td>
<td>Stereochemistry is the study of molecular shapes. Molecules act on their surroundings by binding to other molecules, and their shapes determine which other molecules they bind to. Meet Dr. Fraser Hof and learn about chirality—a form of stereochemistry that is especially important for the chemistry of medicines and of life.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Game Over: Are video games better than books?</td>
<td>Join Dr. Chris Goto-Jones and explore the provocative question of whether video games have replaced books as the pre-eminent expression of the human spirit in contemporary societies. If so, should we lament or celebrate this? And why?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Information Security: The CIA triad</td>
<td>Communicating on the internet is like shouting across a crowded room: your message can be overheard by anyone who listens, not just the intended recipient. The study of information security includes methods to keep private messages secret, prevent impersonation and ensure reliability. Join Dr. Bill Bird to learn about three core facets of information security known as “The CIA triad”: Confidentiality, Integrity and Availability.</td>
