

Graduate Certificate and Master's Degree in Indigenous Language Revitalization Program, Admission and Application Information Indigenous Education and Linguistics University of Victoria

Program Information

Program Goals

To ensure a generation of language experts will have the language and academic skills to participate and lead successful language revitalization efforts in Indigenous communities, and to develop language scholars who will have the expertise to support post-secondary instruction in the revitalization, recovery and maintenance of Indigenous Languages.

Offered jointly through University of Victoria Faculty of Humanities and Faculty of Education.

Coursework - please see current UVic calendar

Graduate Certificate		6.0 Units
IED 572 - SKÁLs: Indigenous Epistemologies		1.5
LING/IED 577 - The Global Context of Language Revitalization		1.5
IED 530 - Indigenous Research Methods		1.5
LING/IED 501 - Linguistics for Language Revitalization		1.5
Master's Degree in Arts or Education*		16.5 - 18.0 Units*
		(including 6.0 units from Certificate)
IED/LING 557 - Indigenous Additional Language Learning		1.5
IED 520 - Indigenous Language Revitalization Pedagogies		1.5
IED 510 - Leadership & Governance for Language Revitalization		1.5
IED 594 - Proposal and Literature Review		1.5
One of:
IED 598 - Major Project		4.5
IED 599 - Thesis		6.0

*Project option leads to M.Ed (16.5 units) and is the standard program for admission. Thesis option leads to M.A. (18.0 units) and requires further application and approval after completion of coursework.

Coursework Schedule

July 2022 (on-campus intensive) IED 572 LING 577	September-December 2022 (blended) IED 530 LING 501
January – April 2023 (blended) IED 557 IED 520	July 2023 (on-campus intensive) IED 510 IED 594

Anticipated but subject to change - schedule of coursework will be sent directly to students

For Application
Information Contact:
Indigenous Education
University of Victoria
phone: 250.721.7824
email: iedlpa@uvic.ca

A partnership between the Faculty of Education, Department of Indigenous Education and
Faculty of Humanities, Department of Linguistics

Admissions Information

Indigenous Education in the Faculty of Education in partnership with the Department of Linguistics in the Faculty of Humanities offers a full-time Graduate Certificate program in Indigenous Language Revitalization, which ladders into a Masters Degree.

For applicants to the Certificate or Degree program, the admission requirements are:

A baccalaureate degree (or equivalent from another country) from an accredited and recognized institution

A grade point average of 5.0 (B) in the work of the last two years (30 units) leading to this baccalaureate degree

Or, mature student category - 4 years professional experience since graduating with a baccalaureate degree

Or, Exceptional Entry admission for students with modified academic requirements

First priority will go to applicants who are fluent/literate or semi-fluent/literate in any Indigenous language. A reference letter attesting to applicant's interest and level of fluency will be required from either the relevant language authority (if one exists) or another person or organization recognized by the Indigenous Education Graduate Program Committee. Contact the Graduate Secretary for examples of appropriate people or organizations to use as references.

For more information, contact the Graduate Secretary
Indigenous Education
University of Victoria
phone: 250.721.7824
email: iedlpa@uvic.ca

Application Deadline: January 31, 2022

Application Process

All applicants must complete and submit the following:

1. The online application form to the Faculty of Graduate Studies (<http://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/admissions/admissions/apply/index.php>). Applicants will be required to pay the application fee via credit card.

2. Two confidential assessment reports provided by two references, who can be a professional colleague, professor or other academic authority, or an Indigenous Language Authority or recognized equivalent confirming fluency in an Indigenous language (admission via modified academic requirements). Forms will automatically be sent to your referees during the online application process via email.

3. Statement of Intent (500 word max). State your goals with respect to your education and how you would like to build on your practical experience in Indigenous Language Revitalization in Indigenous Communities. Submitted electronically during the online application process.

4. Transcripts (can be unofficial transcripts), submitted electronically during the online application process.

For support during the application process, contact the Graduate Secretary
phone: 250.721.7824
email: iedlpa@uvic.ca

Exceptional Entry information

Applicants without an undergraduate degree, but who have achieved significant, relevant work experience, who have shown evidence of the ability to complete major projects, and have demonstrated sufficient skills and abilities to complete a demanding academic course of study will be considered for admission to this program.

Applicants for Exceptional Entry must complete the online admission process, as well as provide the following in their admission package:

1. A portfolio containing evidence of a minimum of 10 years learning achieved in the field, providing rich examples of products created or projects completed, with role or contribution specified, including but not limited to:
 - a. Language CD's, DVD's, video and audio tapes, artwork, photographs, curriculum, translation work, work on orthography, documenting reference materials.
 - b. Journal, school programs, community events organized, taped interviews, proposal submissions, stories, written work, reports, and reflections for their portfolios.
 - c. Mentorship or apprenticeship work with linguists, educators, anthropologists, ethnobotanists.
2. A complete CV/Resume or profile demonstrating the extent and longevity of their experience in language revitalization.
3. An official transcript of all academic courses attempted with the past ten years (or covering a longer period of time if the applicant wishes).
4. One additional letter of reference attesting to both your achievements in the field, and to the likelihood that you will be successful in graduate-level studies.

Please contact the Graduate Secretary for guidance in compiling your portfolio.

