Why Study Educational Psychology at the University of Victoria?

1. Small, intensive programs with close faculty contact.
2. An individually planned program culminating in a dissertation.
3. Excellent record of post-graduation employment.
4. Fellowships and scholarships are available.
5. Research and teaching assistantships are available.

Program Description

The doctoral program in educational psychology permits concentrations in both Special Education and in Learning and Development. Normally students are admitted every year depending on the quality of applications received and faculty availability.

Each student's program of studies is individually planned. It is expected that there will be considerable variation among students as a result of differences in academic background and experience, research interests and future professional goals. The program of studies requires that a broad knowledge of the field or fields of study be demonstrated through the successful completion of candidacy examinations. A major portion of the doctoral program is devoted to a research project culminating in a dissertation, which satisfies the requirements and standards of the Department of Educational Psychology & Leadership Studies and the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

Typically, the doctoral program only takes applications to be considered for a September entry point. If you are interested in applying for a January entry point please contact the program assistant at epslgrad@uvic.ca or 250-721-7883, to obtain permission before you apply.

Program Requirements

Program requirements can be found in the Graduate Academic Calendar:

<https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/grad/index.php#/programs/BkYsa7CzN?searchTerm=educational&bc=true&bcCurrent=Educational%20Psychology&bcItemType=programs>

The minimum total number of units required for the PhD program is 46.5 units. The program requires a minimum of 13.5 units of coursework, a candidacy examination (3.0 units), and a dissertation (minimum 30.0 units). Of the 13.5 units of coursework required, all students must take ED-D 660 (Doctoral Seminar in Contemporary Issues in Educational Psychology), and a minimum of 4.5 units of advanced statistics/research methodology.

A student may transfer a maximum of 3.0 units of graduate credits to his/her doctoral program if the course(s) was completed before entering the doctoral program and not used to obtain any degrees. Courses eligible for transfer must be relevant to the program of study and completed within five years of the date of application. The transfer must be approved by the student's supervisory committee and the graduate advisor for the program area.

A minimum residency of one year is required. During the residency year, students are expected to be committed full time to their studies. Normally, a student proceeding toward a doctoral degree will be required to complete all the requirements within seven years from the date of first registration in the program.

PhD students write candidacy examinations in research methodology and in their area of specialization (for example, learning and development) within educational psychology. The format normally consists of two written papers followed by an oral examination. In the oral examination, the candidate will be examined on both research methodology and his/her area of specialization.

A degree will not be awarded in less than 24 consecutive months from the time of first registration. Students are required to register in every term from the time of admission until the requirements of the degree have been met, or formally withdraw in accordance with regulations set out in the University of Victoria's academic calendar.

Financial Assistance

Fellowships and scholarships

- The University of Victoria awards a limited number of Graduate Fellowships for full-time study. No duties are involved. The awards are competitive and are based on academic standing. All students admitted to the program and assessed with a 7.0 or higher GPA will be considered. As a PhD student you are eligible for 3 years of funding and may be considered for a fourth, depending on your progress in the program.
- A small number of donor scholarships and awards are available to EPLS students in late August/ early September. The graduate secretary will notify all students when and how to apply.
- Students with strong GPAs are encouraged to apply for SSHRC fellowships early in the fall semester. These awards are competitive and compare students on three main criteria: academic excellence, research potential, and communication skills. Students should consult with their supervisor to discuss application procedures. For more information about these awards see: www.sshrc-crsh.gc.ca
- Please visit the University of Victoria's Financial Aid page for information on bursaries, student loans, awards, etc: www.uvic.ca/registrar/safa
- International students can find additional funding opportunities on the UVic International website: www.uvic.ca/international/inbound-students/funding

Paid research assistantships

- Paid research assistantships are available with individual faculty in the department. These assistantships are usually supported through grant funding. They are available to a limited number of qualified students. Students interested in research assistantships should contact faculty members directly.

Paid teaching assistantships

- Paid teaching assistantships (TA) are available within the department of Educational Psychology & Leadership Studies to a limited number of qualified students. The number of teaching assistantships varies yearly. All available TA positions are emailed to student and posted on the departmental website. If you are interested in the TA position, you would apply as outlined.

Work study program

- The Work Study Program is funded by the University of Victoria Student Awards and Financial Aid department. The objective of the program is to provide additional financial assistance through on-campus part-time employment opportunities for students with documented financial need. The Work Study Program runs from September to April of each academic year. Students may only hold one work study position at one time. Additional information is available online at: www.uvic.ca/registrar/safa/work-study

Co-operative education and work placements

- It is possible for graduate students to combine their graduate studies with co-op education in which they apply knowledge and skills in paid work placements across Canada. This usually involves extending program completion by two semesters. For more information please contact: spaco@uvic.ca

Requirements for Admission

Please see the admissions page on our website for a list and description of admissions requirements. <https://www.uvic.ca/education/psychology/educational-psychology/phd-program/admissions/index.php>

English language requirement (for applicants whose first language is not English only)

Applicants whose first language is not English, and who have not resided in a designated English-speaking country for three years immediately prior to the entry-point applied for, must provide proof of English Language proficiency. Only TOEFL, IELTS or MELAB tests are accepted. Official test score reports must be sent directly to the University of Victoria by the testing agency. Scores older than two years are not acceptable. Applicants holding a recognized degree from a designated English-speaking country are exempted from the Language proficiency requirements. Visit the following website for details and required scores: www.uvic.ca/education/psychology/student-resources/english-proficiency

Application Deadline

February 15th, 2023

(Note: Our application submission date has been changed to February 15, 2023 to be consistent with the date provided by graduate admissions.)

Application Assistance

- Applicants are encouraged to begin the application process early, as there is often a delay in obtaining the necessary supporting documents (e.g., references, English proficiency scores). Graduate Admissions is particularly busy and it is advisable to have all supporting documents in as early as possible to avoid a processing delay.

- Make sure you are aware of all the program requirements.
- All required documents should be uploaded with your application. Please see the submission instructions and supporting documents here:
www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/admissions/admissions/beforeapplying/documents
- Submit your application online: www.uvic.ca/application. Fill out the application clearly and completely. You must include information for all post-secondary institutions at which you registered for courses. Failure to disclose may result in having your admission and registration cancelled.
- Include the application fee with your application - you must pay online with a credit card.
- Your file will not be evaluated until all required documents are received.
