Assistant Professor Positions in Computer Science

The Department of Computer Science at the University of Victoria is seeking applicants for two positions at the rank of Assistant Professor with eligibility for tenure and with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2020. We are particularly seeking candidates in the areas of Graphics, Systems, AI and Theory. Yet, candidates in any other area of Computer Science are also encouraged to apply.

The Department of Computer Science is fast growing and has a strong record of excellence in research and teaching at the undergraduate, masters, and PhD level.

Located on Vancouver Island in British Columbia, Canada, the City of Victoria is a wonderful place to live. It has a vibrant tech sector with over 900 companies, an international airport with direct connections to Seattle, and major Canadian cities, as well as direct seaplane access between downtown Victoria and the downtowns of Vancouver and Seattle.

A Ph.D. in Computer Science or related field is required. Successful candidates must demonstrate a strong record of excellence in research and the potential to develop and maintain an internationally recognized research program. They are expected to effectively supervise graduate students, teach computer science courses, obtain external funding, and actively participate in departmental activities. The potential of an applicant’s research program to complement and enrich existing research strengths of the department will be an important factor in the selection.

Applicants should submit a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, up to three selected relevant publications, and three referee letters. The research statement should clearly identify the research area, summarize research achievements, and propose future research.
