Participate in a research opportunity in tandem with the Awareness: Anti-Racism Training during the 5 Days of Action!

Research objectives:

To test if the Anti-Racism Training Program is successful in achieving its learning outcomes, and to test if there are any measurable changes in the participants learning or behaviour over a six-week period.

Research opportunity:

The research opportunity is being used to fulfill a UVic graduate degree in the Masters of Community Development in the School of Public Administration here at UVic. The client for this project is Cassbrea Dewis, Executive Director, Office of Equity and Human Rights. The supervisor for this project is Lynne Siemens, Department of Community Development in the School of Public Administration.

By participating in this research opportunity, you will:

- have a greater opportunity for learning and reflection
- help to evaluate the success of the training program
- support improvements in training programs in the future
- have your say in the effectiveness of this type of training
- participate in the research community here at UVic on your own time and at your own convenience
- participation is completely confidential and voluntary

Process, confidentiality and consent:

This project is completely anonymous. Your name, or any other identifiers will be used. All data is collected through SurveyMonkey and done on your own time and at your own convenience.

Registration, data collection and individual results are completely confidential.

Registration:

To register for this research opportunity, please check the box below.

If you have any questions or, if you would like more details, please contact Ashley McKay at: akmckay@uvic.ca