1. Applying to and Matriculating at UVic

Many questions arise when students have been accepted but are not yet present on campus, such as how to register, how to ask about housing, and how scholarship funding works. Because this information changes frequently, the following sections provide links to online data and resources for all students to explore at their leisure.

1.1. Applying to UVic

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduate/admissions/how-to-apply/index.php>

<https://www.uvic.ca/finearts/music/graduate/index.php>

The School of Music at the University of Victoria offers programs leading to the degrees of Master of Music in Performance, Composition, and Music Technology, as well as a Master of Arts in Musicology and Musicology (with Performance). We also offer a Doctor of Philosophy in Musicology.

Applicants to the master's programs normally hold a BMus or BA in music from a recognized university, with at least a B+ or 6.0 average in the work performed in the last two years (or last 30 units) of undergraduate study. Similarly, applicants must maintain a strong GPA while enrolled: a grade of B- or below (72% or below) automatically initiates an audit and a registration hold for any student.

All applicants must first apply to the UVic Faculty of Graduate Studies, which means they must also meet that Faculty's requirements. This includes the following base requirements:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduate/admissions/admission-requirements/index.php>

As well as UVic's basic language requirements:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduate/admissions/language-proficiency/index.php>

All applicants should prepare and submit a one to two-page statement outlining their background, their goals as a musician and/or scholar, and their reasons for wishing to pursue their graduate degree at the University of Victoria.

Most applicants must also supply supplementary materials such as an audition (Performance), a composition portfolio (Composition), or at least two seminar papers on musicological topics (Musicology). For specific requirements, see the School of Music website, under "Graduate":

<https://www.uvic.ca/finearts/music/graduate/index.php>

Tuition and Fees can be found here:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduate/finances/tuition-costs/index.php>

Students are only eligible for UVic funding if they hold an A- or above on their last two years of undergraduate coursework; for current UVic students, most scholarships require a 6.0 GPA on the UVic 9.0 scale. The School of Music strives to provide full tuition to all qualified applicants whenever possible.

In addition, the School also provides Teaching Assistant awards to most students valued from $1 - 5,000 per annum. (See "Teaching Assistantships" in Section 5 below.)

2. Getting Started

Welcome to UVic! At the School of Music, we feel strongly that music is an innate part of the human experience. We pride ourselves on setting the highest standards of collegiality. We foster an inclusive and collaborative environment in which all approaches and experiences of music are respected and appreciated by our students and faculty. As a graduate student and potential Teaching Assistant, it is your responsibility to not only embody this attitude, but to serve as leaders for your peers across the School.

As a graduate student, you determine your own path to success. Our faculty, staff, and advisors are all here to support you; however, you must take responsibility for all aspects of your education, funding, and program requirements. Often, this means familiarizing yourself with your program, course requirements, project requirements, funding opportunities, and other learning opportunities and services offered across UVic. This handbook is designed to guide you in discovering all of the requirements and resources most essential to your experience at UVic.

2.1. Preparing for Arrival at UVic

2.1 The Faculty of Graduate Studies

All School of Music students are first and foremost members of the Faculty of Graduate Studies (FGS), and only secondarily members of the School of Music. Students must meet and maintain all of the minimum requirements of the Faculty of Graduate Studies for admission to the School. Similarly, all financial awards based on FGS funding must also meet the minimum standards set by UVic. All of this information is easily accessed on the FGS website and in the Academic Calendar. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with these policies and the Calendar.

3. Our Programs

Students are reminded that the most up-to-date information about graduate programs and requirements is found in the current version of the University Academic Calendar:*

<https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/home>

3.1. Program Terms and Definitions

All programs share a few key terms and definitions. These are essential for understanding any of our program requirements.

Faculty of Graduate Studies (FGS)	ALL graduate students are members of FGS. Its rules, regulations, services, funding, and other questions and concerns are often found on the FGS website, not the School of Music site: www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/
Academic Calendar	https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/home This is the official university document for you as a student. It includes all UVic policies, rules, regulations, program requirements, and courses.
Graduate Secretary	musi@uvic.ca This is the primary contact for specific queries regarding paperwork, such as documentation to the School or FGS regarding courses and program completion. This is not the primary contact regarding advising, policies questions, or program requirements.
Primary Supervisor	Your primary contact for program-specific questions, usually the head of your unit or individual instructor upon entry. The faculty supervisor is always the first contact for any advising issue.
Supervisory Committee	A group of two or more faculty that includes the primary supervisor. Committees are required for graduating projects and are formed by students by the end of year 1 and reported to the Graduate Secretary.
Supervision Policy	https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/assets/docs/graduate-supervision-policy.pdf FGS has a rigorous supervision policy. Students should familiarize themselves with this policy and hold their primary supervisor to its standards.
Graduate Advisor	The primary contact for policy and program questions, teaching assistant questions, and "problems." The graduate advisor is an administrator, not a "supervisor" or "advisor" for your program. Their job is to direct you to sources of information or to clarify policies.
Academic Term	A semester. All master's students must enroll in at least 5 consecutive terms, including the summer following year 1.
Project/Thesis	A substantial research/creative project, usually consisting of a recital, substantial research paper(s), or a substantial entrepreneurial endeavour. The precise nature of projects and theses are defined by program and designed in direct consultation with the Primary Supervisor. See Appendix 7.3 for more information.

Thesis Proposal	All theses require an approved proposal. The proposal is usually ten pages in length and includes an extended bibliography on the thesis topic; it must be approved by the entire supervisory committee. The draft proposal is usually circulated by the end of year 1, as part of MUS 533. See Appendix 7.2 for more.
Oral Defense	A 1.5-2-hour meeting of the student and their supervisory committee. This meeting takes place after the completion of the graduating project and includes a 10-20 minute presentation by the student on the project/recital, followed by 30-45 minutes of questions by the supervisory committee. All defenses must have a full Supervisory Committee and a Chair (for all MMus degrees, this is at least two School faculty plus a chair, usually from the School; for MA and PhD degrees, the requirements are different). Students must pass the oral defense to graduate. See Appendix 7.1 for more details.
First-Year Review	ALL students have some form of first-year review with their supervisors. Often, these reviews include a discussion of the courses taken, the student's performance in these courses, and specific outcomes of any first-year projects, such as MUS 588 (recital).
Dean of Graduate Studies	The final arbiter on all matters pertaining to graduate studies at UVic. The dean accepts students, approves and extension or academic concession, approves Supervisory Committees, approves programs, sets examining committees, and recommends all graduate students for program completion (graduation).
Associate Deans of Graduate Studies	These faculty function as liaisons between the Office of the Dean of Graduate Studies and the School of Music Graduate Advisor and Secretary. The Associate Deans – and not the School – hold the power to review and approve all special arrangements, forms, leaves of absence, course substitutions, et al., on the Dean's behalf.
FGS Offices	The FGS and the Graduate Registrar have their own offices in the Jamie Cassels Centre pertaining to graduate records, funding, and other matters relating to program completion. In most cases, if there is a problem or issue with your academic program or progress, the resolution is ultimately supplied by the FGS, and not the School of Music.

3.2. The UVic Grading Scale

The UVic grading scale varies from some other institutions, particularly other international universities. At UVic, graduate students are required to maintain a GPA of at least 5.0 for each term; in addition, any grade below a B- (4.0, or 72%) triggers an automatic audit and registration hold.

Of special note is the reality that grades 90 and above are A+, and that this represents "technically flawless" work. For this reason, it is normal for students to receive grades in the 70-80s in recognition of very good to excellent academic achievement.

Faculty of Graduate Studies- Grading Scale
Grade	Grade Point Value	Percentage *	Description	Achievement of Assignment Objectives
A+	9	90 – 100	Exceptional Work	Technically flawless and original work demonstrating insight, understanding and independent application or extension of course expectations; often publishable.
A	8	85 – 89	Outstanding Work	Demonstrates a very high level of integration of material demonstrating insight, understanding and independent application or extension of course expectations.
A-	7	80 – 84	Excellent Work	Represents a high level of integration, comprehensiveness and complexity, as well as mastery of relevant techniques/concepts.
B+	6	77 – 79	Very good work	Represents a satisfactory level of integration, comprehensiveness, and complexity; demonstrates a sound level of analysis with no major weaknesses.
B	5	73 – 76	Acceptable work that fulfills the expectations of the course	Represents a satisfactory level of integration of key concepts/procedures. However, comprehensiveness or technical skills may be lacking.
B-	4	70 – 72	Unacceptable work revealing some deficiencies in knowledge, understanding or techniques	Represents an unacceptable level of integration, comprehensiveness and complexity. Mastery of some relevant techniques or concepts lacking. Every grade of 4.0 (B-) or lower in a course taken for credit in the Faculty of Graduate Studies must be reviewed by the supervisory committee of the student and a recommendation made to the Dean of Graduate Studies. Such students will not be allowed to register in the next session until approved to do so by the Dean.
C+	3	65 – 69
C	2	60 – 64
D	1	50 – 59
F	0	0 – 49	Falling grade	Unsatisfactory performance. Wrote final examination and completed course requirements.
CTN	Excluded Grade	N/A	Continuing	Denotes the first half of a full-year course.
FNC	Excluded Grade	0-100 [†]	For No Credit	Denotes a 100-299 level undergraduate course for no credit in the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

Students in the Faculty of Graduate Studies must achieve a grade point average of at least 5.0 (B) for every session in which they are registered. Individual departments or schools may set higher standards. Students with a sessional or cumulative average below 5.0 will not be allowed to register in the next session until their academic performance has been reviewed by their supervisory committee and continuation in the Faculty of Graduate Studies is approved by the Dean. Some academic units may employ a percentage system for evaluating student's work.

[†]FNC will produce a grade on the transcript

3.3. Program Requirements for All Students

- All degrees require 5 consecutive terms of enrolment, usually including terms 1 and 2 (year 1), term 3 (summer), and terms 4 and 5 (year 2).
- Students usually enroll in their Project/Thesis requirement (MUS 598 or 599) starting in their first summer (usually term 3). These courses have no classroom component, but they do require a tuition payment. They provide all students with access to UVic resources during the summer, including study permits, visas, and other important things. Students continue to enroll in these courses until the completion of their project/program.
- All degrees require a Project or a Thesis, as well as an oral defense. For performance degrees, the project is a graduating recital; for other degrees, it is an academic research project that is formalized as a written research paper and presented to the committee at the oral defense.
- All degrees require a supervisory committee, usually consisting of the primary supervisory and at least one other qualified faculty member plus a committee chair (minimum three members total). The student is responsible for forming the committee by the end of year 1 and reporting this to the Graduate Secretary by the end of term 2. Rules and regulations for committees are different for projects (all MMus degrees) and theses (some MA degrees):

<https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/policy/BJZ9esMOV?q=supervisory%20committees&&limit=20&skip=0&bc=true&bcCurrent=17%20-%20Graduate%20Studies%20Committees%2C%20Advisers%2C%20and%20Supervisors&bcltemType=policies>

- All programs require you to schedule your events. This includes scheduling any recitals, committee, and oral defenses, usually several months in advance. Contacts for this varies; details are listed in the appendix.

4. Financial Awards

The FGS and the School of Music have routine and special awards for students. The following subsections first describe some of our more routine awards; specialized donor awards are described in later sections. All of the following information can also be explored on the FGS website:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/finances/financialaid/uvicawards/index.php>

4.1. FGS Funding for the School of Music

The School of Music receives annual funding to be distributed to qualified graduate students. To qualify for funding, students must be enrolled full-time and must meet high academic standards, usually based on GPA.

4.2. FGS Award Types

These are the most common UVic awards. These awards are normally renewable, but renewal depends on student performance and the availability of department funds:

- University Fellowships: Minimum GPA is 7.0/9.0 for domestic students, or “first class” standing for international students.
- University Graduate Awards, Tier 1: Minimum GPA is 7.00/9.0 for domestic students, or “first class” standing for international students.
- University Graduate Awards, Tier 2: Minimum GPA is 6.0/9.0 for domestic students, case-by-case for international students. Maximum award is $7,500.
- Graduate Entrance Award (GEA): Minimum GPA 7.0/9.0 for domestic students, or “first class” standing for international students. Standard award is $5,000.
- President’s Research Scholarships: These bonus awards are only available to students who hold a federal research council scholarship (SSHRC, NSERC, CIHR) and vary in amount.

4.3. Payment Schedules for FGS Funding

Payment schedules depend on the amount of funding received by a given student:

- $1,000 – $3,000 – Paid in one instalment at the start of the term
- $3,500 – $5,000 – Paid in two instalments at the start of two consecutive terms
- $5,500 – $7,500 – Paid in three instalments at the start of each term (incl. summer)
- $10,000 or more will be paid in monthly instalments from September to August

- Federal research council awards and any other externally funded awards will be paid in monthly instalments.

4.4. Additional Awards and Financial Aid

In addition to standard FGS funding, UVic provides financial aid to students in the form of bursaries and alternative forms of funding for Canadian citizens or Permanent Residents (see bottom of page):

https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/finances/graduate-student-funding/?utm_medium=redirect&utm_source=/graduatestudies/finances/financialaid/uvicawards/index.php&utm_campaign=redirect-usage

The School of Music also has its own list of additional awards. Nominations for these awards generally occur during the summer, usually in preparation for a student's second year of study. Students are strongly encouraged to discuss these awards with their supervisors if they believe they may qualify for an award.

All of these awards can be found under the two types of "donor awards" on this FGS page:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/finances/search-funding/index.php>

The following two sections highlight the more common awards for graduate students in the School of Music.

4.5. Financial Aid

The FGS also provides information on a few additional funding sources – including bursaries and national awards – for all students. These resources can be found here:

https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/finances/graduate-student-funding/?utm_medium=redirect&utm_source=/graduatestudies/finances/financialaid/uvicawards/index.php&utm_campaign=redirect-usage#ipn-uvic-scholarships-awards

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/finances/search-funding/index.php>

5. Teaching Assistantships

As a graduate student, you are eligible to apply for a teaching assistant position. These positions are competitive, but we are usually able to accommodate all applications to some degree. All positions receive the same hourly wage, but each position is weighted based on hours per week and term, meaning some positions are worth far less (i.e., fewer hours per week or fewer terms) than others. It is important to note that the hours per week are set for each position, meaning that you do not fill out a time card and you are not able to work "overtime" for any position.

ALL students, including returning students, must re-apply for a TA position each year.

- Applications are automatically distributed and received by the Graduate Secretary each spring.
- Positions are determined by the Graduate Advisor in consultation with others (as needed).

Important information for Teaching Assistants:

- All current TAs must fill out the CUPE TA checklist with their teaching supervisors every term (see Appendix 7.9).
- TAs are responsible for keeping track of their hours to ensure they do not go over the designated hours per position.
- Problems with TA assignments and workloads should be discussed directly with the teaching supervisor first (as per your contract), then with the Graduate Advisor.
- The Centre for Learning and Teaching provides continuous support for TAs:
<https://www.uvic.ca/learningandteaching/ta/index.php>

All TA positions are also supported by the CUPE, or UVic's Educational Employees' Union:
<https://www.uvic.ca/bargaining/cupe-4163-1-2/>

The Union also has its own website with up-to-date materials: <https://4163.cupe.ca>

5.1. The Teaching Assistant Consultant (TAC)

The School of Music sometimes has a Teaching Assistant Consultant. TACs are typically graduate students with teaching experience and leadership. TACs report to the LTSI Professional Development Programs and TA Training Manager, and are responsible for providing a discipline-specific TA workshop series, teaching observations, one-on-one mentoring, and referrals to appropriate campus resources. The LTSI provides all TACs with training, support, and resources. You can find more details here:

<https://www.uvic.ca/learningandteaching/ta/pro-d/programs/tac/index.php>

6. Staying Sane: FAQ and UVic Services

Being a graduate student is often stressful. Most students balance multiple forms of employment, full course loads, and dynamic relationships all at once. In Victoria, they must also balance a competitive rental market, longer public transit times, additional parking expenses and parking limitations. Despite a supportive community and a beautiful landscape and climate, it is important for all students to acknowledge how often these stressors affect academic performance and mental health.

The following FAQs and listed services are related to some basic aspects of student life. Your graduate advisor and primary supervisor are always appropriate people to talk to when the going gets rough—indeed, it is important to let your teachers and peers know when you need a bit of extra support. At the same time, it is rarely the case that anyone at the School of Music holds the ability, training, or responsibility to actually assist you in solving many of the more personal issues that arise for students—your supervisor is not a qualified therapist or mental health consultant. For this reason, we direct you to the following professional services available to all members of UVic.

6.1. Frequently Asked Questions

- I'm a new student. How do I get good advice from other students on anything? Everything?

Try the GSS (Graduate Student Society) or the UVSS (University of Victoria Student Society)—and don't forget to check out all of their social media feeds. You can also always look for UVic websites related to "new students," "incoming students," and "resources for students," such as this page:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/resourcesfor/students/index.php>

- What is my degree plan? When and how do I register? What classes should I take?

As a graduate student, it is important to get into the habit of reading things carefully and seeking out the appropriate sources for information. Case in point: answers to these questions all appear earlier in the Handbook!

The very first section of this handbook contains information and links about getting started at UVic, and the entire third section is on our programs and requirements. None of these answers can be distilled down to a single answer to a single question, so read up!

For more general introductory information, check here:

<https://www.uvic.ca/students/graduate/new-graduate-students/index.php>

- Is there a student orientation for graduate students? Do I wait to do things until then?

Yes! No! The graduate student orientation welcomes you to campus and introduces you to all of the details. But BEFORE orientation, you have a long checklist of things to do: find a place, register for classes, get to Victoria, sort out your funding, etc. A good place to start is this website, which has links to dozens of others:

- Is this normal? Have others experienced this?

The answer is almost always yes. If you ever feel marginalized, remember you are not: from daily struggles with coursework, to confusion over registration, to even finding the right forum for assisting with identity politics or personal injury...UVic has dedicated services to help. Remember that your graduate advisor and other faculty are there to offer support and direct you to appropriate assistance on campus rather than trying to help you manage your life on their own. If you feel otherwise, it is likely a miscommunication and not a personal vendetta. When in doubt, always communicate your issues to the Graduate Advisor: the more we know, the more we can help you. Note all of these resources to help: <https://www.uvic.ca/graduate/campus/student-services/index.php> https://www.uvic.ca/students/?utm_medium=redirect&utm_source=/graduatestudies/resourcesfor/students/index.php&utm_campaign=redirect-usage

- How to I find a place to live?

Victoria has one of the lowest vacancy rates in all of North America. This makes it very challenging to find a place. At the same time, Victoria is a destination campus and rentals often come up at every point of the year as other students come and go. British Columbia also now has some of the toughest laws to protect renters. If you struggle to find or keep housing, you are not alone, and the laws are there to help you. At the same time, you can always ask other students or check out UVic's sites to find the best places to find accommodation. Two popular websites are Used Victoria (<http://www.usedvictoria.com/classifieds/real-estate-rentals>) and Kijiji (<https://www.kijiji.ca/b-apartments-condos/victoria-bc/c3711700173>). You can also try UVic sites like this one: <https://www.uvic.ca/residence/home/home/off-campus/>

- How can I live in Victoria without going broke?

Ask friends! Victoria has many "normal" stores and shops that are extraordinarily expensive, but that doesn't mean everything is expensive. Many students, faculty, and staff have tips for places to go to save money. And if the going gets rough, no one is above asking for free assistance: The Faculty of Fine Arts and the various Student Societies have food programs and a free store to help students in need. <https://uvss.ca/foodbank/>

- UVic's website is confusing. How do I get the most out of it?

Always start with the FGS site: <https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/> or the graduate calendar: <https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/home>

Next, always focus first on the menus on the left side of the screen. Much of the most important, quick-access information that you need about forms, student life, and regulations and requirements can be found quickly through the side menu. And finally, always look for more detailed information by focusing on the obvious words: registration, funding, Academic Calendar, and the like.

6.2. Useful (and often free!) UVic Services

UVic supports a large number of offices devoted to helping students manage both sides of the work-life balance. Always remember that these offices are filled with specialists who respect your privacy and value your time. From needing a food bank or emergency loan to dealing with depression, anxiety, or abuse, no problem is too big, too small, or too personal to avoid seeking help.

They also provide free workshops for writing and research groups where you can meet other graduate students. The “free services” link provides a schedule for the entire coming year, including the summer.

- Office of the Ombudsperson: <https://uvicombudsperson.ca>

https://www.uvic.ca/finearts/music/assets/docs/live_streaming_request.pdf

7.2. Oral Defenses

Oral Defenses are a requirement of all graduate programs. They are designed to test the depth and breadth of your knowledge on your project topic or recital program. In general, oral defenses always take place after the submission or performance of one's major research paper/project/recital.

MMus Performance

These defenses usually take place after the graduating recital, usually within two weeks of the recital itself. The defense usually begins with a 10-20 minute presentation by the student on repertoire choices, their stylistic contexts, and their related musical challenges. Students are then responsible for answering questions on all aspects of recital preparation, including research related to program notes, translations, and repertoire choices; students must also be able to demonstrate knowledge of historical time periods, related styles, and alternative repertoire possibilities for each aspect of their project/recital.

MMus Composition

Candidates are required to complete one or more extensive original compositions (MUS 598B), which are normally performed live during the final year of study (students are also tasked with the arrangements for such a performance). Students must also submit an analysis paper in addition to the graduating composition. The candidate's advisor must approve the topic of the paper and the graduating composition, and both must also pass the committee prior to the defense. An oral defense will be administered by the supervisory committee after the performance of the candidate's graduate composition(s) and the completion of their written paper.

MMus MTech

These defenses normally take place after the completion of the project and the submission of a written report or research paper (the requirements for these vary by project and supervisor). They often begin with a 30-minute conference-style presentation of one's research project, followed by 45-75 minutes of questions related to both the written and oral versions of the project, for a total duration of approximately two hours.

MA Musicology (and MA Musicology with Performance)

There are two types of musicology defenses. Both normally take place after the submitted project has already been approved for consideration by the supervisory committee. Thesis defenses include an external member and an external, FGS-appointed chair and usually begin with a 10-20-minute presentation by the candidate that summarizes the content of the thesis; these require that the thesis be circulated a minimum of 20 business days before the oral defense. Project-based degrees include only the supervisory committee and an internal chair begin with a 20-minute conference-style presentation of one's research project. Both are followed by 45-75 minutes of questions related to both the written and oral versions of the project, for a total duration of approximately two hours.

7.3. Project Requirements for Composition: Written Projects

Candidates in composition are required to complete one or more extensive original compositions. These works will normally be performed during the final year of graduate study. The candidate will also submit an analysis paper in addition to the graduate composition. The candidate's academic supervisor will approve the topic of the analysis paper and the graduating composition.

7.4. Project Requirements for MTech

MTech students often complete some combination of a functional project (a program, technology, practitioner's research, etc.) along with a written report of varying length. As MTech projects vary, all guidelines should be discussed directly with the head of the program. Written projects must follow UVic formatting guidelines:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/forms-policies/data/etds submissionsteps.pdf>

7.5. Project Requirements for the Musicology Project Option

Musicology projects must conform to the project degree requirements listed in the Academic Calendar:

<https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/programs/HJa2pXAMN?bc=true&bcCurrent=Musicology&bcltemType=programs>

Musicology written projects must also follow UVic formatting guidelines:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/forms-policies/data/etdsubmissionsteps.pdf>

Unlike the thesis, the project option usually consists of a shorter research paper that receives additional attention or expansion in ways other than length. Some examples include:

- A research paper that leads to a professional conference paper fit for a national or international, “peer-reviewed” conference; the conference paper would serve as the presentation at the student’s oral defense;
- Two revised research papers from earlier seminars that include expanded bibliographies; this would also require a conference-style presentation on both topics as part of the oral defense;
- Two versions of a major grant proposal for submission to two different organizations, both related to the same large-scale research or community project in the arts; this would also require a 30-minute professional presentation of the project as part of the oral defense;
- A substantial paper (with approved bibliography) that results from a lecture-recital.

7.5.1. Project Requirements for Musicology with Performance Project Option

Musicology with Performance is a unique degree. Students complete both a lecture recital and a written project. The written project is usually a research paper that forms the basis for the lecture component of the recital. Students must receive approval of the project from his or her primary supervisor before beginning any dedicated research and enrolling in MUS 598M.

Musicology projects must conform to the requirements listed in the Academic Calendar:

<https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/programs/HkC3pQAzN?bc=true&bcCurrent=Musicology%20with%20Performance&bcltemType=programs>

Musicology written projects must follow UVic formatting guidelines:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/forms-policies/data/etdsubmissionsteps.pdf>

As with the Musicology Project Option, this degree allows for alternate formats to the standard research paper. Some examples include:

- A research paper that leads to a professional conference paper fit for a national or international, “peer-reviewed” conference; the conference paper would serve as the presentation at the student’s oral defense;

- Two revised research papers from earlier seminars that include expanded bibliographies; this would also require a conference-style presentation on both topics as part of the oral defense;
- Two versions of a major grant proposal for submission to two different organizations, both related to the same large-scale research or community project in the arts; this would also require a 30-minute professional presentation of the project as part of the oral defense;
- A substantial paper (with approved bibliography) that results from a lecture-recital.

7.5.2. Requirements for the Musicology Thesis Option

Musicology theses must follow UVic formatting guidelines:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/forms-policies/data/etds submissionsteps.pdf>

Musicology theses must also follow unique oral exam guidelines:

<https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/oral-exams/oral-exam-guidelines/index.php>

The thesis is preceded by a thesis proposal.

The thesis proposal is developed within the context of MUS 503 and MUS 533, after which it is approved by the primary supervisor. The proposal is normally 10 pages in length, with a substantial bibliography that resembles at least half of the projected works cited list of the thesis. It should provide the projected structure, methodology, content, and conclusions of the thesis project, as well as at least one or two major musical examples or pieces of documentary evidence that will support the central argumentative claim.

The thesis itself can take the form of an article-length paper suitable for publication (usually 8000 words), or a conventional thesis featuring multiple chapters with a total of fewer than 30,000 words.

A typical MA thesis is a substantial research document of publishable length and quality. Most thesis projects will vary from 6500-10,000 words, including footnotes but not including the bibliography or examples/captions, with a minimum of 30-40 top-quality sources drawn from a broader bibliographic engagement.

Others choose to write a more traditional thesis which is longer in length (under 30,000 words), consists of multiple chapters, and not suitable for publication—these generally have the same level of research depth and the same number of sources as the format above (30-40 top-quality sources drawn from a broader bibliographic engagement).

For reference, a double-spaced page of typed text in a standard font is usually about 315 words. UVic has strict standards for how a thesis should be formatted for official submission on the FGS website (see above): <https://www.uvic.ca/graduatestudies/forms-policies/data/etds submissionsteps.pdf>

7.6. Musicology Language Requirement

The MA in Musicology Thesis Option requires a language component. This component is scheduled independently with the primary supervisor. Usually, it involves translating a passage from a relevant source for the thesis research from another language into English. Certain levels of achievement can also substitute for a written exam, such as certain levels of standardized test certification or, in the case of less common languages, limited coursework to achieve certain reading ability alongside established work with the language. Language requirements are usually completed by the start of Term 3.

7.7. FGS Graduate Supervision Policy

This policy defines the expectations and responsibilities in the supervisory relationship for graduate students, members of the Faculty of Graduate Studies, academic units, graduate advisors, supervisors, supervisory committee members, and the Dean and Associate Deans of Graduate Studies. It is essentially the "FGS Handbook" and provides further information to everything found in this handbook.

7.8. Course Permissions, Academic Concessions, and Leaves of Absence

Graduate Students are required to follow their program as it appears in the Academic Calendar. Any adjustment to program requirements or residency requires the student to file special paperwork, usually under the heading of an "academic concession" or a "leave of absence."

Course-related issues

Most academic concessions relate to course issues (needing to withdraw from a course, make a grade adjustment, and so on). These requests should go through the Graduate Secretary, as they always require special forms and outside approval.

Leaves of Absence

Remember that all leaves should be discussed with your supervisor before you take any official steps. Although you can choose to leave UVic at any time, you must announce your leave and - in most cases - it must be approved by FGS. The academic calendar provides information on leaves:

7.9. School of Music Graduate Degrees by Term

Students need to be familiar with their program requirements as they are listed in the Academic Calendar: <https://www.uvic.ca/calendar/future/grad/index.php#/programs?searchTerm=music>
No one in the School, including the Graduate Advisor, Director, or any Supervisor or faculty member, can single-handedly alter program requirements. Any changes to your program or requirements must be formally requested to the Graduate Advisor, at which point they are evaluated and submitted to FGS for approval.
