Ever wonder what it's like to work as a data scientist in the Ministry of Health? This presentation is a sequel to the previous seminar and will highlight the data holdings available, the tools we use, the people we work with and the general day to day work of a data scientist in the Office of the Provincial Health Officer and the Ministry of Health. The presentation will end with a panel of our team's data scientists looking to answer your questions about working in BC Government. This presentation is aimed at current students, alumni and anyone else who may be interested in future positions on our team.
