University of Victoria School of Nursing PhD in Nursing Information Session

Preparing nurses to combine creativity, imagination and compassion with rigor, logic, and critically informed research.

Our doctoral program offers dynamic learning in an extraordinary environment. Learn how you can join a diverse and supportive community of scholars to explore the intersections of research, education and advanced practice nursing.

- Explore what shapes the disciplinary knowledge of nursing
- Enhance your ability to communicate research findings and the implications of nursing ideas to diverse audiences and stakeholder groups
- Contribute to the nursing profession and discipline and engage in change in Canada's health care system

You are invited! To an online information session about the distributed/online PhD in Nursing program.

Tuesday September 14th 2021
6:00 - 7:30 pm PDT
