

UNIVERSITY OF VICTORIA
DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH GRADUATE COURSES
SUMMER 2025

ENGLISH 522 TOPICS IN CULTURAL STUDIES: Contemporary Indigenous Story as/and Medicine
(1.5 units)
Storyteller in Residence, Richard Van Camp
Tuesdays and Fridays, 3:30-6:20 p.m PST
July 7-August 15, 2025
ONLINE, SYNCHRONOUS

This course brings together Indigenous storytelling with periodical studies and hands-on multi-media production. Led by Richard Van Camp with support from Stephen Ross and Iain Higgins, you will produce a special issue of The Malahat Review. You'll learn about how Indigenous storytelling functions as a mode of knowing, exploring, building relationships, and healing. You'll also learn about current directions and trends in Indigenous publishing and gain hands-on experience in producing one of Canada's leading literary periodicals. Finally, you'll produce podcast interviews and audiobooks that will be hosted on the Library's KULA platform. You will leave the course with a deep knowledge of the contemporary Indigenous literary scene in Canada, practical skills in periodical publishing, and important experience in audio production.