

Greek 302: Greek Tragedy

Fall 2025 MTh 2:30-4:00 pm Professor Laurel Bowman

Greek 302 is an advanced reading course in Greek after the introductory sequence. The course will involve translation and analysis of one or more plays of Aeschylus, Sophocles, and/or Euripides. Readings typically include reading two plays by different authors.

Learning Outcomes:

- advanced Greek grammar
- advanced Greek reading skills
- historical and cultural contexts of ancient Greek tragedy

Prerequisite: Greek 202, or permission of the department.