Searching for Mariana: Gender, Race and the Elusive Cuban Nation

Saturday, 11 March | noon
Harry Hickman Building, Room 116

Presented by the Program in Latin American Studies

Founding director of the International Journal of Cuban Studies and the 2009 recipient of the UNESCO Toussaint L'Ouverture Medal for outstanding achievement in combating racism in political, literary, and artistic fields, Doctor Jean Stubbs is an internationally recognized authority on Cuban history. She has half a dozen books on Cuba to her name including Tobacco on the Periphery and Afro-Cuban Voices: On Race and Identity in Contemporary Cuba. In her lecture she will focus on the intersection of race and gender from the nineteenth century to the present.
