

Mistakes...

The World Is Full Of Them!

Despite their reputation as pristine pieces of history, manuscripts are not free of faults!

However, these are not flaws! Rather they are a window into the vast lives that these manuscripts have had, in the hands of their makers and their readers. These hidden bits of history are just as important as the text themselves

Just one look at these mistakes will show anyone just how humans have been misspelling, spilling drinks, and forgetting to blow the candle out for centuries

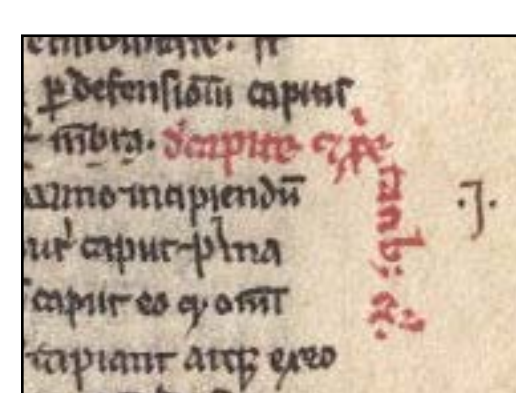

Something had to hold it together!

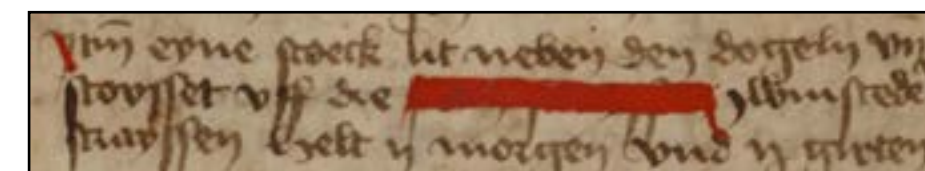

Manuscript?

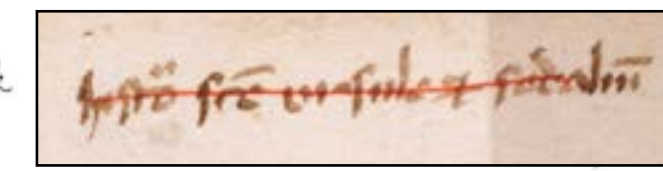

I think you mean a perfect place to set my mug down.

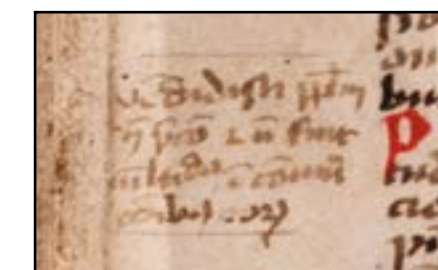

I can fit it.

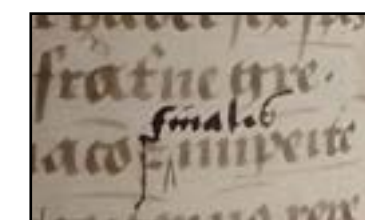

Now that, that has got to go.

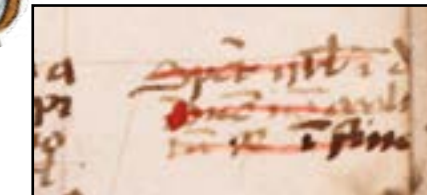

Didn't like that line, huh?

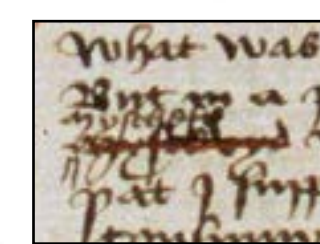

Um actually....

Just squееeeze that in there...

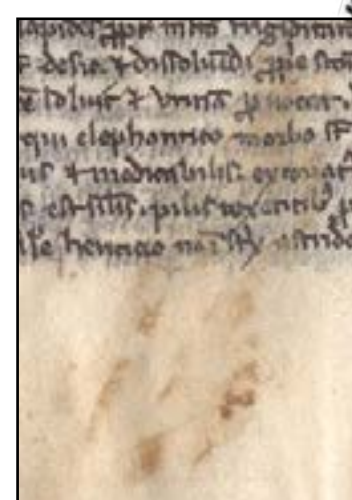

This guy didn't know what he was talking about!

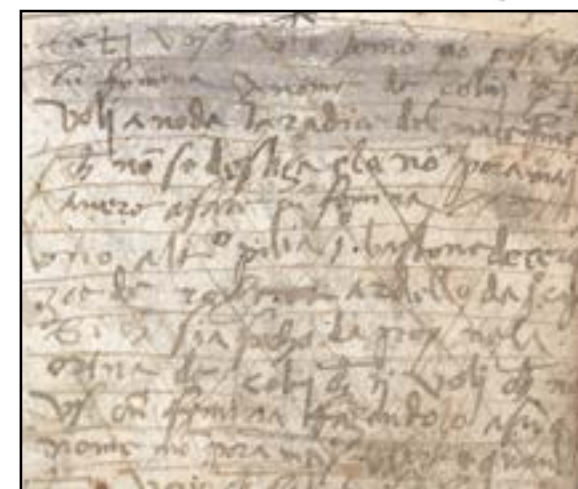

Spelling is hard, alright!

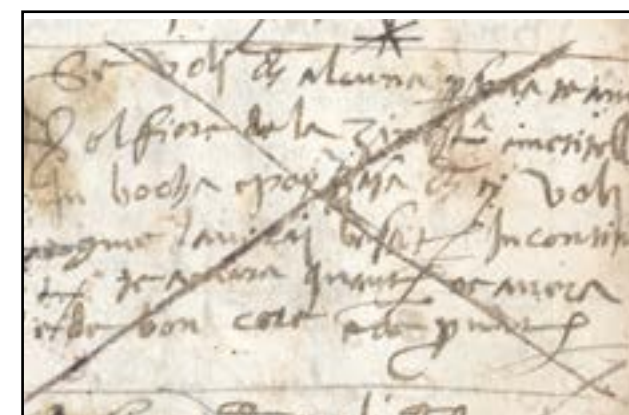

Probably just food stains, right?

Get your grubby hands of my manuscript!

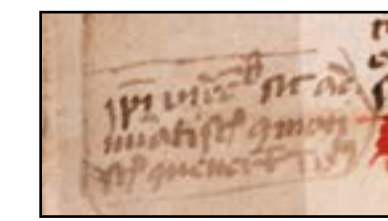

DO NOT USE THIS POTION!

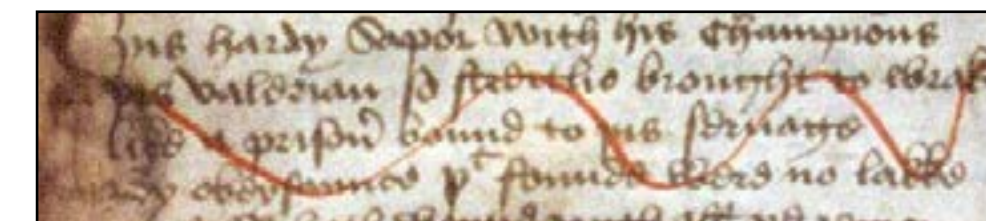

Someone didn't like this recipe...

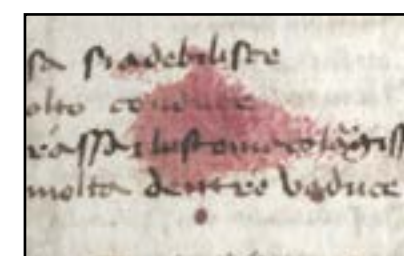

Hope that word wasn't important...

I'll just add my own thoughts here!

Shoot, this passage was not suppose to be here.....Just let me scribble that out.

I would never bleed in your recipe book!
It's red ink I swear!

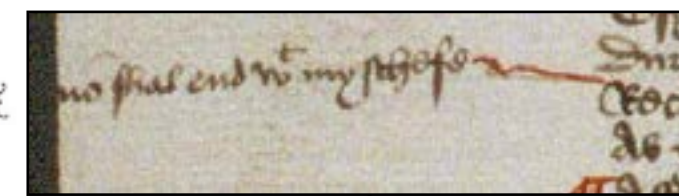

Not sure I want to know what this stain is...

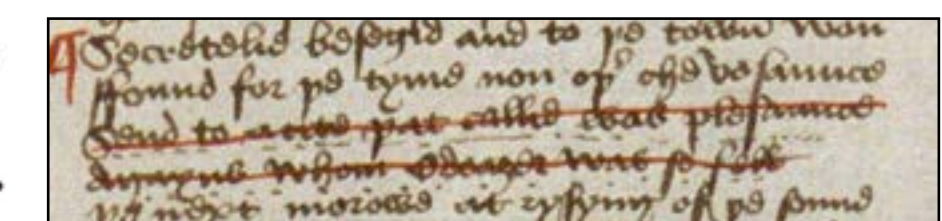

Its just a little spill!

Curse this leaky lamp!

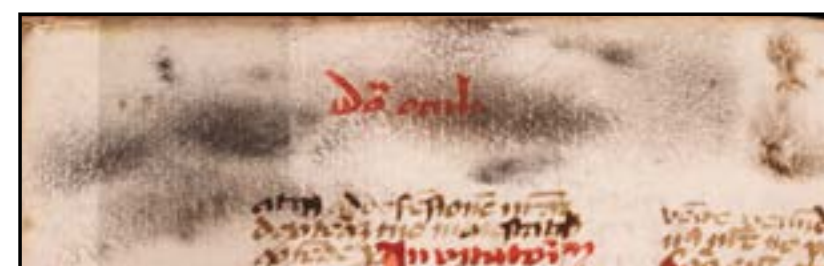

Forgot a line again, dammit!

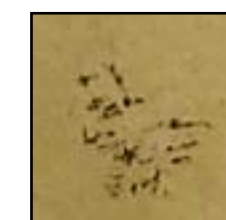

A professional scribe you say, then why is the whole sentence wrong then?

Looks kinda like a bird, doesn't it?

Maybe I should have washed my hands...

I swear, I didn't have ink on my thumb!

I was just turning the page!

You can't prove that I ripped it!

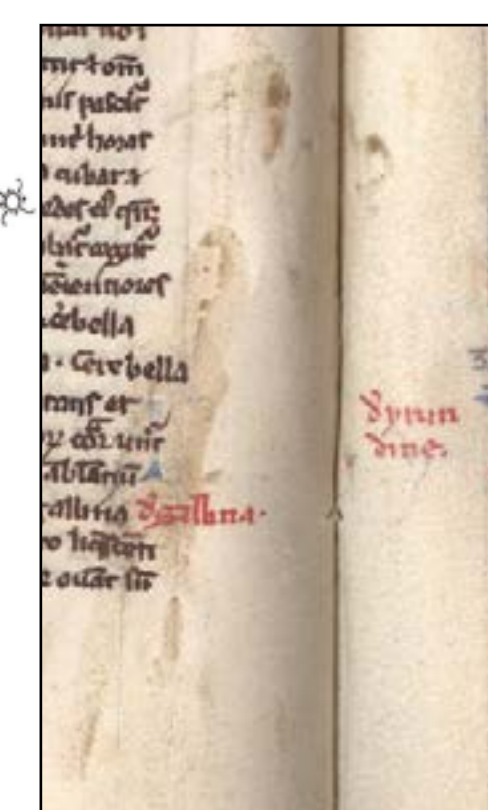

What a waste of a good cup of tea...

Eating dinner while reading does have consequences.

How did that it even get there!?

If I just close the book, no one will see the spill, right?