Provisional Draft: This outline is intended to give students a sense of what the course is like. It is not the final, official course syllabus

Course Format

This course combines synchronous and asynchronous elements. The lecture materials will be delivered asynchronously – posted at the start of a given week on the course web site, along with any other teaching materials. The scheduled Thursday course slot will be used for on-line discussion sessions, via Zoom, hosted by the instructor. (This is the synchronous element of the course.) Students will be divided into groups; those groups will rotate through the Thursday slot. Depending on the enrollment numbers, students can expect to be required to attend (virtually) approximately one third of these sessions. Details and final plan will be announced at the start of term.

Course Description

Epistemology is concerned with such things as knowledge, justification, evidence, rationality, doubt, truth, scepticism, and many other related topics. This course is an examination of current issues and theories in epistemology. Subjects to be addressed include: analyses of knowledge, and whether knowledge admits of an analysis; the debate between foundationalists and coherentists; the internalism-externalism debate; why we should care about truth; naturalistic approaches to knowledge; epistemic normativity; whether knowledge is somehow context-dependent; and what the proper response to scepticism might be. Students will read both the introductory textbook and original readings from leading figures in current epistemology. Upon successfully completing this course, students will have a very good sense of what is happening in contemporary epistemology.

Texts

- 1) Jack S. Crumley II, An Introduction to Epistemology, 2nd edition (Broadview, 2009); ISBN: 9781551119076. Available through the UVic Bookstore,¹ from the publisher,² or via online retailers.
- 2) Several additional readings will be made available via the course's web page (Brightspace). Students are responsible for acquiring copies of these.

Evaluation

Students' grades will be based on:

² <https://broadviewpress.com/product/an-introduction-to-epistemology-second-edition/#tab-description>.

- a) Two take-home, open-book midterm exams. (30% each)
- b) A final paper, approximately 8-10 pages long. Some topics will be suggested. Students may write on a topic of their own design, but only if they obtain the instructor's permission in advance. (30%)
- c) Participation in Thursday discussion sessions. The emphasis here is on attending (virtually) the minimum number of such sessions. Details to be announced at the start of the term. (10%)

Expectations

Students are expected to do the readings for a given week ahead of time, to watch/read the posted lecture materials as they are made available, and to be prepared to talk and ask questions about the course material (either directly, or in the scheduled discussion sessions).

Three quick tips for doing well in the course

1. Keep pace with the class materials. Watch/read the posted lecture materials as they are made available.
2. Do the readings ahead of time, and read 'actively' – pay attention to what you're reading, ask yourself what point(s) the author(s) is trying to make, why this matters, what questions you'd like to ask the author, and so on.
3. If you're having difficulty with any of the course material (readings or lecture content), speak to the instructor – take advantage of office hours (TBA) and discussion sessions.

Beyond the student's having adequately addressed the topic question(s) on which he/she writes, evaluation of the short assignments and term paper will be based on: evidence of comprehension of the materials and issues addressed; evidence of original and critical thought with regard to that material; the extent to which the student stakes out a position and provides good reasons and arguments for it; the extent to which the student communicates his/her ideas clearly (using complete and grammatical sentences, correct terms, a clear essay structure, and so on). For the short assignments and term paper, the use of outside materials (i.e., any readings not assigned for the course) is permitted only if you have received the instructor's permission ahead of time. Any materials used for the short essays (i.e., any course readings) must be properly cited in the standard way.

The standard University grading scheme will be used. Here is an excerpt from it (the full version is here:

Grade	Point Value	Percentage	Description
A+	9	90 – 100	An A+, A, or A- is earned by work which is technically superior, shows mastery of the subject matter, and in the case of an A+ offers original insight and/or goes beyond course expectations. Normally achieved by a minority of students.
A	8	85 – 89
A-	7	80 – 84
B+	6	77 – 79	A B+, B, or B- is earned by work that indicates a good comprehension of the course material, a good command of the skills needed to work with the course material, and the student's full engagement with the course requirements and activities. A B+ represents a more complex understanding and/or application of the course material. Normally achieved by the largest number of students.
B	5	73 – 76
B-	4	70 – 72

C+	3	65 – 69	A C+ or C is earned by work that indicates an adequate comprehension of the course material and the skills needed to work with the course material and that indicates the student has met the basic requirements for completing assigned work and/or participating in class activities.
C	2	60 – 64
D	1	50 – 59	A D is earned by work that indicates minimal command of the course materials and/or minimal participation in class activities that is worthy of course credit toward the degree.
F	0	0 – 49	F is earned by work, which after the completion of course requirements, is inadequate and unworthy of course credit towards the degree.

Plagiarism and other forms of cheating will not be tolerated. It is each student's responsibility to know the University's regulations in this regard. The Policy on Academic Integrity is published on the University website:
