Course Outline/Course Objective
This course explores some of the most important and influential theories about the nature of morality that have been developed in the tradition of Western philosophy. Towards this end, we will study excerpts from some of the classic texts of Hobbes, Kant and Sidgwick as well as some important contemporary work in moral theory by John Rawls, Derek Parfit, David Gauthier and Thomas Scanlon. The objective of the course is to provide students with a sound understanding of the main problems in normative ethics and the different moral theories that have been developed in response to them. We devote special attention to the following broad theories: consequentialism (especially utilitarianism), Hobbesian contractarianism, contractualism, and Kantian theory. Although the course examines some classic texts in the history of philosophy, we will approach the material with an emphasis on the relevance of the material studied to contemporary moral philosophy.

About Colin Macleod
Colin Macleod B.A. (Queens), M.A. (Dalhousie), Ph.D. (Cornell) is a Professor of Philosophy and Law. He joined the Philosophy department at the University of Victoria in 1998. His research focuses on issues in contemporary moral, political and legal theory with a special focus on the following topics: (1) distributive justice and equality (2) children, families and justice and (3) democratic ethics. He is the author of Have A Little Faith: Religion, Democracy and the American Public School (University of Chicago Press 2016) [co-written with Ben Justice]; Liberalism, Justice, and Markets: A Critique of Liberal Equality (OUP 1998) and coeditor with David

Territorial Acknowledgement

I acknowledge with respect the Lekwungen peoples on whose traditional territory the University of Victoria stands, and the Songhees, Esquimalt and WSÁNEĆ peoples whose historical relationships with the land continue to this day.

Formal Course Requirements

Written work for the course consists of 1 term paper (approximately 3,000 words in length), 1 midterm exam, 1 final exam and (as many as) 10 quote and comment assignments. The term paper is worth 40% of the course grade, the midterm is worth 20% of the course grade, the final exam is worth 30% of the course grade and the quote and comment assignment is worth 10% of the course grade.

Informal Course Expectations

Although no grade is assigned for participation in class discussion or attendance, I expect students to attend class regularly and to participate actively in class discussion. You should feel free to pose questions and raise philosophical issues related to the material we are studying. I expect students to be attentive to and respectful of the perspectives of others in the class but this does not mean you should not voice disagreements with or raise criticisms about the philosophical views presented by members of the class. We can all learn a lot from lively exchanges of different points of view. So, I encourage voice your views in an open and thoughtful manner. You should expect to challenge the views of others and to have your views challenged by me and other members of the class. If there is material in the course that you find puzzling or difficult to understand please ask me about at an appropriate juncture in class or discuss your questions with me during my office hours.

Appropriate Academic Conduct

Students are expected to understand and abide by the University regulations concerning academic misconduct - e.g., plagiarism, cheating, etc. For further information about these matters students can consult the University Calendar. If you are unsure what constitutes plagiarism or academic misconduct, consult me before submitting an assignment.

Late Assignments/Missed Tests and Grace Period Policy

Unless you provide me with a written note that provides a compelling reason (e.g. a documented medical problem) for granting an extension or for missing an exam, I will not change the due date of assignments nor will I reschedule exams for you.
will accept, without grade penalty, essays (but no other assignments) that are submitted up to one week after the due date. However, essays that are submitted in this period will not receive any comments. After this grace period unexcused essays will not be accepted. For other information with regards to missing deadlines, etc. please see the UVic University Calendar.

Quote and Comment Assignment Instructions

Over the course of the term, you may complete as many as 10 quote and comment assignments. However, you may only submit ONE quote and comment in any given week of term. Your task is to identify an interesting passage in the assigned readings for the week and offer a clear, concise and thoughtful comment on the passage. Make sure you clearly identify the author and source of the passage you quote. In your remarks, provide a brief explanation of the issue raised in the cited passage and then provide a brief response – e.g., a criticism or comment or constructive question – about cited passage. Your remarks should never exceed a single, double-spaced piece of paper. Use 12 point font and regular margins. The date, your name, student number and the course number should be clearly indicated at the top left-hand side of the page. I will assign full marks to any assignment that reflects a good faith effort to engage the material in a thoughtful way. To receive credit for a quote and comment assignment you must submit your assignment in class.

Your assignment should have the following format:

Your Name & Student #
The date
Philosophy 335
Quote & Comment # (e.g., #1)

Quotation and source (this can be single-spaced)

Your concise comment (this must be double-spaced)
