

APPLIED LINGUISTICS

LING 387

Task-based Second Language Instruction

1-250-472-4665

lshuang@uvic.ca

www.lishihhuang.com

Curious about a career teaching English or other languages in Canada or abroad? Ready to turn your interest in languages into practical teaching skills? Learn by doing, and explore hands-on strategies for teaching vocabulary, listening, speaking, reading, and writing, experiment with game-based learning, and discover creative ways to engage language learners.

LING 387 is designed to help you meaningfully integrate theory and practice through designing, exploring, and reflecting on engaging language-learning tasks. Gain practical experience, build your teaching toolkit, and discover new possibilities in second language education!

Pre-requisite: None

Term: 202701

CRN: 21976

Instructor: Li-Shih Huang, PhD (Recipient of the TESOL Pedagogical Material Development Award, Faculty of Humanities Teaching Excellence Award, Research Excellence Award, and Engaged Scholar Award)