

LING 504: Current Issues in Morphology (1.5 units)

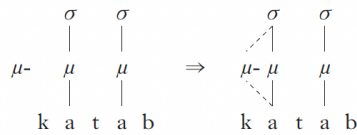

Fall 2026 – University of Victoria

(10) Non-concatenative distinctiveness

a. Gemination

b. Lengthening

Trommer & Zimmermann (2014: 470), Generalized mora affixation and quantity-manipulating morphology.

Schedule

Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday: 9:30 - 10:20

Prerequisites

There are no prerequisites.

Description

This course explores recent developments in morphological theory. We will explore how different theories account for non-concatenative morphology, such as lengthening, segmental changes and reduplication and what this implies for the architecture of the grammar.

Textbooks

- Various readings, handouts and slides will be distributed throughout the course.

Instructor

Suzanne Urbanczyk | Pronouns: she/her | urbansu@uvic.ca

Office hours: Wednesdays from 11:00 until 12:00