Subject: Using pleasure craft as non-pleasure craft

Scope

This bulletin is for anyone who owns or uses pleasure craft in Canadian waters.

Purpose

This bulletin will help you understand what type of vessel you’re using, and how to use it safely and legally in Canada. It will help differentiate when a pleasure craft rented or hired, becomes a non-pleasure craft (commercial vessel).

Background

In recent years, the emergence of online platforms and mobile applications, which allow pleasure craft owners to list their vessels for rent, have made it easier for vessel owners to turn their boats into revenue generators. However, as with short-term property rental and ride sharing services (e.g., Airbnb, Uber, etc.), not all operators of these new small businesses are familiar with the laws and regulations governing them, in particular when the vessel is rented with a captain and crew.

Safety is Transport Canada’s main priority. Transport Canada Marine Safety and Security would like to help the owners and operators of these vessels become, and remain, safe and fully compliant with Canadian laws and regulations.

Keywords:
1. Pleasure Craft
2. Non-Pleasure Craft
3. Small Vessel Compliance Program (SVCP)

What you need to know

In Canada, vessels are defined and regulated by how they’re used. This can make it hard to know if a vessel is a pleasure craft or not, since many vessels are used for both work (non-pleasure) and pleasure.

Is your vessel a pleasure craft or a non-pleasure craft?

Examples of renting and hiring pleasure craft and non-pleasure craft

What’s a pleasure craft?

- Any vessel used only for pleasure (cruising, water sports, fishing), or hanging out with family and friends
- This includes vessels used to fish for yourself (not for catching and selling fish) or daily activities (like driving your boat to work)

If you’re using the vessel for anything other than just pleasure, it’s a non-pleasure craft. This means that you need to follow the non-pleasure craft rules in the Canada Shipping Act, 2001 and related regulations.

You can hire a captain or crew to operate a pleasure craft, but only if you use it for pleasure. Regardless of whether you own or rent your boat, you’re the only person who can hire and fire a captain and crew.

What’s a non-pleasure craft?

- Any vessel used for anything other than pleasure

If you’re using a vessel for something other than pleasure, you must follow the non-pleasure craft rules in the Canada Shipping Act, 2001 and related regulations.

Your vessel is considered a non-pleasure craft if you use it for:
- guided fishing and hunting trips
- carrying passengers for trips or transport
- workboats
- commercial fishing
Who’s a passenger, who’s a guest?

Canadian law defines a:
- “guest” as someone on a pleasure craft, but doesn’t own or rent the pleasure craft; and
- “passenger” as someone on a non-pleasure craft that isn’t the master, crew, or working on the vessel

Pleasure crafts can only carry guests, and people carried on board are not considered guests if you make money or profit off them. If you’re taking friends or family out on your pleasure craft for fun and they split the cost of the fuel with you, they are still considered guests and the vessel is still a pleasure craft.

Proof of Competency

You don’t need proof of competency to use a pleasure craft in the waters of Nunavut or the Northwest Territories

Anyone who uses an engine-powered vessel needs proof of competency. “Proof of Competency” is a document, such as a Pleasure Craft Operator Card (PCOC), that proves you have successfully completed the Transport Canada boating safety test, you understand the basic rules and can safely operate a boat.

You can get a Pleasure Craft Operator Card by taking a boating safety course in-person or online and passing the Transport Canada test at the end of the course.

If you have an operator’s card there are rules on what types of boat you can operate, and where you can operate it.
- In sheltered waters, you can operate a non-pleasure craft (except a tug) that is:
  - no more than 8 meters long
  - carrying no more than 6 passengers
  - a fishing vessel of up to 15 gross tonnage or no more than 12 meters long

- If a vessel is within 2 nautical miles from shore on a Near Coastal, Class 2 voyage, you can operate a non-pleasure vessel (except a tug) that is:
  - no more than 8 meters long
  - not carrying any passengers
  - a fishing vessel of up to 15 gross tonnage or no more than 12 meters long

To operate a vessel for other non-pleasure reasons, you’ll need more training.
NOTE: non-pleasure vessels are often referred to as “commercial vessels”.
