JOB TITLE: PSYC8 - Research Assistant

DEPARTMENT NAME: PSYC

CONTACT NAME: Ulrich Mueller

JOB DESCRIPTION:

The successful applicant will work as a research assistant in a larger research project that examines the contribution of social interaction to cognitive development in preschool children. The work provides a valuable experience for a student interested in pursuing graduate studies in psychology or further employment in research and development.

Duties will include recruiting parents and children for research studies, scheduling research visits of parents and children at the Child Development Lab, assessment of children, data entry, and possibly some data analysis. Other potential activities include assistance with poster preparation for conference presentations, or manuscript preparation/editing.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Good interpersonal and communication skills. Applicant must feel comfortable interacting with children and parents. Maturity and reliability are a must when working with children.

Experience of working with children is preferred. Some familiarity with spreadsheet (e.g. Excel), and word processing software would be useful but is not necessary.
