

Learning Community Engaged Research

A CFYS survey of UVic graduate students

Marshall, Lawrence, Roche, Poje

UVic has a strong commitment to community engagement. What does this mean for research? Currently, many research method courses do not include how to collaborate with community partners on project design, data collection, analysis or knowledge mobilization.

Of the 257 UVic students surveyed, 90% (229) were interested in learning CER.

Only 10% were not interested.

72% (182) reported not receiving any CER instruction.

UVic student interest in CER

Those students receiving CER instruction at UVic found the top three places for training were:

Graduate Research Courses

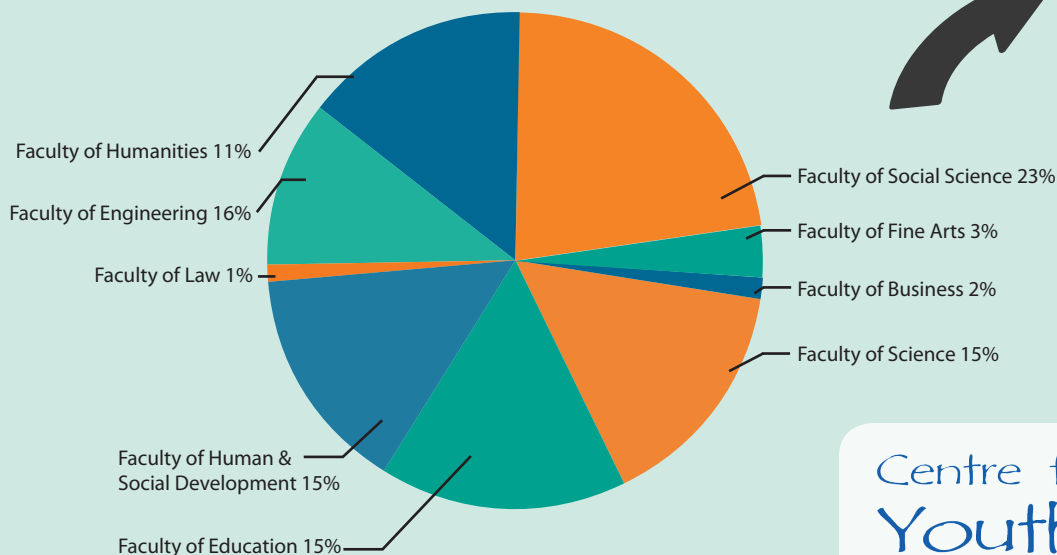

Graduate Mentorship

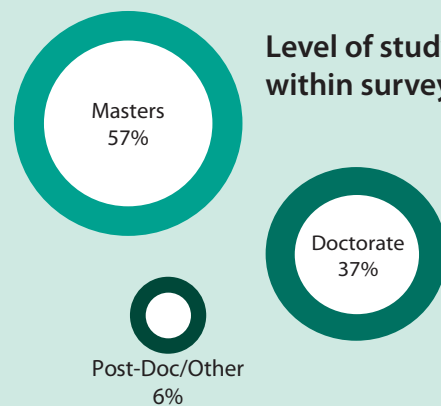

Paid/ Volunteer Research Work

Demographics within survey

Level of study within survey

Centre for Youth & Society UVic

@UVic_CFYS

www.youth.society.uvic.ca

Centre for Youth & Society

University House 3