

Boehm Family Award for Undergraduate Travel

Overview of award

Introduction

The Boehm Family Award for Undergraduate Travel supports undergraduate student participation in academic or professional conferences. The funds can be used to offset the costs of registration, travel, and accommodation.

Who is eligible for an award?

To be eligible for a Boehm Family Award for Undergraduate Travel:

- the conference must be held outside of the Capital Regional District;
- the applicant must be presenting at the conference;
- the applicant must provide evidence of participation in the conference (e.g. registration receipt);
- the applicant must be declared in a Faculty of Science program (or a program combined with the Faculty of Science); and
- the applicant will not have previously received this award.

Within one month of the end of the conference, award winners must draft a paragraph describing the work they presented and how receipt of the award assisted with their participation in the conference. This paragraph (and optional photo) will be emailed to: science@uvic.ca.

Value of award

The Boehm Family Award for Undergraduate Travel is $400.

How are students selected for the award?

Awards will be granted to all eligible applicants subject to availability of funds. Normally, a given conference will be eligible for only one award per year.

How do you apply?

To apply for this award, a student must complete the Boehm Family Award for Undergraduate Travel application form and submit it to the Office of the Dean of Science via email (science@uvic.ca).

Application deadline

Acceptance of applications for a given year will open on January 1 and will end when the funds have been spent for that year.
