Anthropology Honours Program

Students planning a professional career are encouraged to consider the department's honours program. The honours program offers an opportunity to undertake independent research under the guidance of an anthropology faculty member. Students compose their honours research essay according to their own specialized interests in anthropology.

For application and more information see our honours website.

For previous honours thesis see library website.

Come see current honours students' presentations on Thursday April 4th, 2019 at our Currents in Anthropology conference.
