UVic Anthropology – In the News & Congratulations

- Congratulations to our MA student Alyssa Ball on receiving 2nd place in the poster competition at the Pacific Ecology & Evolution Conference.
- Congratulations to our MA student Jack Baker on winning the 2019 Elizabeth Henry Scholarship. His work in Cordova Bay and the Gulf Islands "engages community members in dialogue around reviving /revitalizing cultural practices around seaweed".
- Congratulations to our alumnus Callum Abbott on his article "Lithics and Learning" being published in Archaeologies of the Heart. The book also includes an article "Conceiving of "Them" When Before There Was Only "Us" by Melanie Chang (ANTH sessional instructor) and April Nowell (ANTH professor and chair).
- Congratulations to our professor Dr. Brian Thom and the Ethnographic Mapping Lab's project "The "Oka Crisis": A Digital Atlas of the 1990 Events at Kanehsata:ke" is included (and given a pretty good review) in the Scout Report - 'best of internet' report.
- Congratulations to our PhD Candidate Jeremy Beller, who just got on having his article published in the Journal of Archaeological Science: Reports.
- Article "A First Nation, a Fight for Ancestral Lands, And an Unlikely Alliance" about UVic archaeology field school in Barkley Sound.

Take care of yourselves
