

ANTH 150 A02/RCS 101

Anthropology of Religion and Food

---

INSTRUCTOR: Dr. Rachel Brown

COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES

This course is an investigation into the intersections of food and the world's religions. We will address food prohibitions, rituals involving food and food symbols that are present (or absent) in the various traditions and will pay particular attention to how religious groups use food to construct relationships (real or imagined) between individuals, the community, and nonhuman beings (animals, deities, ancestors).