COURSE DESCRIPTION

Welcome to GEOG 340—Geographies of the North American City! This course offers a broad introduction to the field of urban geography with a primary focus on the historical development and contemporary processes of urbanization in Canada and the United States. The main goal of this class is to examine key themes in urban geography, including the historical geography of urbanization, changing approaches to urban planning and governance; the politics of urban renewal; neoliberal urbanism; housing and homelessness; gentrification; cultural diversity, social segregation, and immigrant communities; and utopian speculations on the urban future. We shall explore these issues and more in relation to various North American cities to illuminate the complexities of the urban experience.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Provide a broad overview of the key concepts and perspectives in urban geography
- Examine the main urban geographical processes of urbanization in North America
- Assess the major political, economic, social, and cultural changes that have transformed contemporary urban landscapes in North America
- Critically analyze the politics of urban development and social inequality within capitalist societies

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Acquire a general understanding of the major concepts and approaches in contemporary urban geography
- Acquire an in-depth knowledge of the historical and contemporary processes of urbanization in the North American context
- Develop the ability to critically assess the contested politics that have shaped urban spatial imaginaries and regimes of urban governance
- Improve competency in critical urban analysis by writing a literature review paper and producing a digitally-edited short urban film

CLASS FORMAT

The format for this course will consist of a combination of lectures, seminar-style discussions of assigned readings, and films. Most class sessions will be lecture-based, but we will also occasionally use class time to discuss the assigned readings, which students are expected to have read prior to class each day. In addition to the standard lecture format, there will also be several in-class activities and films throughout the semester. Aside from the midterm and final exam, the main assignments for the course will be a literature review paper and an urban film project.

We will be using the CourseSpaces management system as a medium for the posting of relevant course materials and related course information (<http://coursespaces.uvic.ca>). Powepoint files for each lecture will be posted on CourseSpaces at the end of each week.

ASSIGNMENTS

Exams (50%)

The course will have one mid-term exam (20%) and a final exam (30%). Each exam will consist of a combination of multiple-choice and essay questions. The final exam, held during the regular final exam period, will be cumulative.

Literature Review Paper (20%)

One of the basic research skills in the field of urban geography is conducting a literature review on an urban-related topic. For this class, each student shall select an urban topic in consultation with the course instructor and write a scholarly literature review following the instructions below.

1. Select an urban topic of interest.
2. Conduct a keyword search using the Web of Science database via UVic's library website to find journal articles related to your topic in peer-reviewed geography and urban studies journals. Here is a step-by-step process to conduct a Web of Science search:
 - a. Go to UVic's library website at: <http://www.uvic.ca/library>
 - b. Click to "Search Options" tab.
 - c. Click the "Databases" tab.
 - d. Under "Frequently used databases," click the "Web of Science."
 - e. Log into your UVic user account, which will take you directly to Web of Science.
 - f. Change search type from "Topic" to "Title," and then type in the keyword for your topic (e.g., "homelessness").
 - g. To limit the number of results, you are now going to "refine" your search to geography and urban studies journals; to do so, click "More options/values" under the Web of Science Categories heading on the left hand side of the screen.
 - h. Then, check the boxes for "Geography" and "Urban Studies" and click "Refine" at the top of the screen.
 - i. Now, you can look through the results of your search in various ways. Next to the "Sort by" heading, change this option to "Times Cited—highest to lowest" and this will sort your results by how often a given article is cited in the academic literature; you can also sort by "Publication Date—newest to oldest" to see the most recent articles on your topic.
 - j. If you think an article is relevant, click on its abstract to see whether you'd like to download it to your computer; most articles in Web of Science can easily be downloaded in pdf format.
 - k. Select at least 15-20 relevant articles that you will read in preparation for writing your Literature Review Paper (I would recommend having a combination of widely cited works as well as recently published works that haven't yet been cited because they are so new).
3. Once you have decided which relevant articles from Web of Science you will be using for your paper, write a short proposal, consisting of your name, paper title, a 1-paragraph summary of your topic, and a preliminary bibliography (proposal deadline: Sept. 28, submit via email to redwood@uvic.ca).
4. Proceed with reading the relevant literature in your bibliography and writing the Literature Review Paper (paper deadline: Nov. 30, submit via email to redwood@uvic.ca).

The Literature Review Paper should be 10-15 pages, double-spaced, 12-pt Times New Roman font, 2.54 cm margins, with no large spaces between paragraphs. The paper can either be written individually or in groups of two.

Urban Film Project (20%)

As part of this course, students will work in groups of 3-5 students to make a 10-minute film about a particular aspect of urban geography in the Greater Victoria Region. The film should be digitally edited using desktop software (such as iMovie for Macs or comparable software for PCs). Groups should consult with the instructor about potential topic ideas, but examples might include a focus on:

- a particular neighbourhood in the Greater Victoria Region
- a key urban issue in Victoria (e.g., homelessness, urban redevelopment, transit planning, the sewage debate, the amalgamation debate, graffiti, etc.)

Once your group has selected a topic, you should post your group members' names and your topic idea on the CourseSpaces discussion forum entitled "Selecting an Urban Film Project Topic." This will enable your fellow classmates to see what other topics have already been chosen, so as not to have multiple groups picking the same topic.

Ideally, there should be at least one person in each group with prior video-editing experience. However, we will spend a portion of one class session learning some basic techniques to edit video using iMovie software. Video equipment is available for rent at a reasonable cost via UVic's Audio-Visual Media Services if group members do not have their own video equipment (<http://web.uvic.ca/mediaservices/djrentalpricelist.htm>). No late videos will be accepted without prior consultation with the instructor regarding a medical emergency or related university-excused extension, since we will be holding a film screening during the last week of class.

Attendance (10%)

Attendance is crucial to the successful completion of this class. A sign-in sheet, therefore, will be distributed at the beginning of each class session. Each student is responsible for signing the sign-in sheet. If a student has a university-excused absence, this should be discussed with the instructor, preferably before the date of absence. Additionally, each student is required to attend at least one of The City Talks public lectures as part of their participation in this course (see below). If a student cannot attend one of these talks due to a scheduling conflict, please consult the instructor at the beginning of the semester to make other arrangements.

The City Talks: Urban Studies Speaker Series

This fall the Committee for Urban Studies at UVic will be hosting its annual public speaker series called The City Talks. The series schedule will be posted on CourseSpaces, and while you are only required to attend one of the lectures as part of your class attendance for the course this fall, I encourage you to come to all the lectures if time permits. For more information about The City Talks schedule, see <http://thecitytalks.ca>.

OFFICE HOURS

I strongly encourage you to come to my office hours. As the course instructor, my main goal is to help you learn, so if you have any questions about the material, or the class in general, you are more than welcome to come speak with me during office hours. If you are not available during that time, email me to set up an appointment.

EMAIL

Send all email to me using the email address listed on the first page of the syllabus (redwood@uvic.ca). Please include the course number (GEOG 340) in the email subject title. I will do my best to respond promptly to your questions.

PLAGIARISM

All class assignments should be prepared by the student(s) submitting the assignment. Plagiarism, or any other form of academic dishonesty, will not be tolerated in this course. Plagiarism consists of: (a) submitting someone else's work as your own without the use of proper citation or (b) paraphrasing another's ideas without acknowledging the author's work through citation. The use of an editor, whether paid or unpaid, is prohibited unless the instructor grants explicit written authorization. If you have any questions concerning matters of plagiarism, please see the following link: <http://www.uvic.ca/library/research/citation/plagiarism/index.php>

UVIC'S ACCESSIBILITY STATEMENT FOR STUDENTS WITH A DISABILITY

Students with diverse learning styles and needs are welcome in this course. In particular, if you have a disability/health consideration that may require accommodations, please feel free to approach me and/or the Resource Centre for Students with a Disability (RCSA) as soon as possible. The RCSA staff are available by appointment to assess specific needs, provide referrals and arrange appropriate accommodations (<http://rcsd.uvic.ca>). COURSE EXPERIENCE SURVEYS (CES)

I value your feedback on this course. Towards the end of term, as in all other courses at UVic, you will have the opportunity to complete an anonymous survey regarding your learning experience (CES). The survey is vital to providing feedback to me regarding the course and my teaching, as well as to help the department improve the overall program for students in the future. The survey is accessed via MyPage and can be done on your laptop, tablet, or mobile device. I will remind you and provide you with more detailed information nearer the time but please be thinking about this important activity during the course.
