1. Discuss why you should be considered for this field school and how the field school would forward your academic, professional, and/or personal goals.
2. Food security and food sovereignty will be an important component of this field school. As we are being hosted by an Indigenous nation, at mealtimes, you may be offered country foods (ie. rabbit, deer, or bison). Does this raise any concerns for you?
3. This field school is only one week in length, and you will be in proximity with people from all different walks of life. Is there a need for personal growth in engaging with different cultures that you anticipate? How can we help you feel better prepared for any potential culture shock?
