Job Summary

Located in Victoria, British Columbia close to Vancouver and Seattle, the Department of Psychology at the University of Victoria invites applications for a two-year limited-term Assistant Teaching Professor position starting May 1, 2020 – April 30, 2022. The successful applicant will be expected to teach eight courses per year (typically a 3-3-2 distribution). The teaching assignments may include Introductory Psychology, Methods, Statistics, and core courses in the areas of Social Psychology, Lifespan Development and Mental Health & Wellbeing.

Qualifications

Candidates must be experienced in teaching psychology courses and must hold a PhD at commencement of the position. The candidate must also demonstrate excellence in teaching through their teaching materials, letters from referees, course evaluations, and peer observations. Preference will be given to the candidate who has a demonstrated background in teaching core courses in two of the three areas of Social Psychology, Lifespan Development, and Mental Health & Wellbeing.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; in accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. Please indicate in your application package if you are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident.
