Type of appeal

My application for undergraduate studies was rejected.

My offer of admission from UVic was withdrawn.

I was denied transfer credit for coursework completed at another post-secondary institution.

I was penalized for submitting falsified documentation or failing to disclose attendance at other institutions.

Reasons for your request (select all that apply)

Unforeseen extenuating circumstances.

Significant physical affliction or psychological distress.

Significant distress or responsibility as a caregiver, resulting from an immediate member of your family suffering from serious trauma or illness.

Incorrect advice or administrative errors by authorized University of Victoria personnel, with evidence that your studies were adversely affected.

New information that you were unable to provide in your application, and which could reasonably be expected to alter the decision.

Letter of appeal

Your appeal must include a written statement of the reasons and grounds for your appeal, and your plans to ensure academic success if you're admitted to UVic. It will be read by UVic faculty and staff who are directly involved in your appeal process and will be treated as confidential information.

Attach your letter of appeal to your email as a PDF file.

Supporting documentation

Supporting documentation is required and may include (but is not limited to):

- a note from a physician or other health care professional
- evidence of incorrect advice or errors of administration by UVic
- documented significant distress or responsibility as a caregiver
- a letter from an educator addressing the reason your academic record may not reflect your academic potential.

Attach your supporting documents to your email as PDF files.
