

Dr. Sara Humphreys Biographical Sketch

Dr. Sara Humphreys has been an Assistant Teaching Professor at the University of Victoria since 2017 and an Associate Teaching Professor since 2024. She currently serves on Senate (2020 and 2023-2026) has served on a variety of committees and working groups, including the Senate Committee on Curriculum, Indigenous STEM Retention and Access working group, the AWR working group, the Faculty Association Teaching Committee, among several others. Sara was the Faculty Mentor for Online Learning in the Humanities for 2020-2021, Course Coordinator for ATWP135 Academic Reading and Writing, and Acting Director for the ATWP (2023-2024). Prior to her position at the University of Victoria, she served as the Vice President of the Trent University Faculty Association and as a Member-at-Large for the St. Jerome's University Faculty Association executive committee. At both institutions, she was a member-at-large on Senate. She is active in her field, with a monograph published by the University of Nebraska Press (2021), and a SSHRC Knowledge Synthesis Grant awarded in 2023-2024. She has a strong belief in the interconnectedness of teaching, research, and service.