

Hii nulth tsa kaa Karla Point has been employed at the University of Victoria since November 2020 and she is currently the Indigenous Resurgence Coordinator for the Faculty of Fine Arts. Karla attained her law degree in 2006 and a humanities degree in 2003, both from the University of Victoria.

Karla's work brings her in contact with many other staff and faculty members, and she has got to know many of her colleagues in the four years that she has been with Fine Arts. Karla wants to help the university fulfill its commitment identified in the purpose, pledge and principles in the University's Strategic Plan and sitting on the Appointment Committee is one way for her to do that.
