

Biographical sketch:

I'm Logan Cucksey, a 3rd year Biochemistry student in the Faculty of Science. I moved to Victoria from the United States in 2017 and have been loving life on the island. I am very involved in the university community. I am a member of the Student Transitions Leadership program, a player on the Uvic Vikes men's field hockey team, and an active member of the Biochem/Microbiology student society (BMSS). The experiences I've had through participating in a broad range of activities have given me insight into what students would like to see from the University. Being a member of the senate, I will act on the changes students want and help ensure that the university keeps the interests of the undergraduate community in mind when making decisions on policies or actions.

Election platform:

As an active member of the university community I constantly hear what students want. I know that divestment, a better program for mental health, and lower fees are just a few of the actions students want the university to take. When voting I will consider the desires of the undergraduate community first. I will discuss upcoming votes with my colleagues in order to give me a good picture of what students want, and act on this during the discussion and voting in the senate.
